F BYE New Zealand Land, Land

Dr. Aileen Lamond wakes up in the Kiwi Kryogenics Institute to find not only has she been in suspended animation for the past 30 years, but that while asleep she had been “volunteered” to chair three committees and to bring the paper products to the BioGeneticists’ annual picnic in Tongariro Forest. In two harrowing days time she must regenerate her muscles, save the country’s oldest national park, battle aboriginal wombat poachers, climb burning volcano Mt. Ruapehu, kill a man, befriend a magical dingo with a past and write her memoirs. All this before the Evil Scientists/NSA Agents/Circulation Staff Members from KKI catch her and demand an explanation for the long missing Michael Crichton books on her Institute Information Center library card.
